Extract from a Lotter from United States Min-ister Comby at Honolulu The native products are all cheapeverything else is dear. But most

HABITS OF THE HAWAHANS.

American residents-even Americans born here never learn to eat like the natives-always want to out the same as their fathers did before them in Boston, or New Bedford, or New York, So ving is enormously dear, for natives (I am told) can live easily on $1 a week. They cat poi, tare, bananas, melons, and so on, and nothing of flesh kind, except fish or game. The fish they eat raw, perhaps as a rule, though they sometimes cook nhem. It is common to see them take a fish still alive, and eat it right down, erunching bones and all up together with their great strong, white teeth Some other time I may have eisure to give you some interesting particulars about the large variety of fish eaten by the Hawaiians, and the garnish of sea-weed with which the fish and the poi are eaten. The poi is almost invariably eaten with cured fish, something like a salt cod in taste-very pleasant cating. The taro is very much like a superior kind of Irish potato in taste and in nutrition. There is no artiele of diet anywhere that has more nutriment to the square inch than the ture. The natives are the most careless, improvident, laughter-loving people in the world. They have no winter to "lay by" for—even the proverbial "rainy day" needs nothing here. So they dance and sing, and dook themselves with garlands all the day long. Men of the class which, if they were Americans, would think it dandyish or silly to wear a button-hole boquet, go here with great garlands of the leveliest flowers and green leaves hanging in festions around the neck, around the hat, everywhere. These men are not the fops or loafers of the race, but the hard-working fellows-the herdsmen, the backmen, even the draymen, go about adorned in the most exquisite taste, with flowers and leaver wreathed into forms of beauty which come to an American like a revelation in art. Some of our belles at home, I think, have a moderately good conception of what may be done with flowers, in the adorument of a ball-dress, for example. Well, sir, I vorily believe I have seen wild herdsmen come riding into town at a reckless gallop, barefooted, with a lasso in band, who could show ona at those belles such lovely conceptions in the effect of flowers as she nevor dreamed of. These natives apparently live a life of perpetual joyonsness. They are always laughing, singing, playing jewsharps, making floral wreaths, or somothing of that sort. They have no wealth-nothing that would satisfy an American. An American would feel squalid and wretched if he had no more worldly possessions than most of the na-

Why any of thos senators who voted against Butler car consistently vote for Eastis is one o those political paradoxes that canno be accounted for. If Butler's case backed the elements of strength, that of Sustivia weakness itself.

SENATOR David Davis, after opening a way for the admission of Butcher Butler to the senate as one of his prets by voting with the denocrats on all the subsidiary motions, satisfied his conscience by dodging the vote on aumission. We once knew an old man who, in deprecating the profamity of a neighbor, said, "Now I swear some times, but I pray sometimes, too ' Semitor Davis evidently wants to be judged by his average.

END OF SOUTHERN REPUBLICAN-

Special Disputch to the New York Times. COLI MBIA, S. C., Nov. 27.—The Legislature assembled to-day. When the last session adjourned in April there were sixteen Republicans, sixteen Democrats and one Independent. To day the resignation of ten Republican Senators, including that of Swails, President, all Democrats, leaving six vacancies. The course of politics in the future According to Donn Platt the cloak- may be predicted with certainty in view of the following facts Richland county has elected a Democrat to fill one of the vacancies that of Post, who was a Republican elector. Last year the county gave 1,700 Republican majority At the special election last month, Kensler (Democrat) received 1,062 votes out of a total vote polled of 1,061. Not a Republican vote was polled. J. B ('ampbell, of Charleston, a Democrat, succeeds a Republican The vote cast was 1,581, all but 15 being for Camphad 6,500 majority. Whittemore (Rupublican) is succeeded by Coker (Demo-(act) His vote was 2,001, with 14 scattering. Whittemore had 1,800 maprity when he was elected. The House, which assembled in 1876 with 59 and sputable. Republican members, to-day has thirty-four. These orages have been partly produced by resignations inspired by fearand desponiency, and partly by arbitrary expulcons, as in the case of seventeen memsers of the House from Charleston.-Nevertheless, the Democrats are not uppy. Hompton, backed by a conserative delegation from Charleston, hopes to control the Legislature. But kingfield and the up country are intent upon the reactionary programme, incluand the wholesale repudiation of the public debt. Hampson's message strongly advocates the payment of every valui obligation

Some fault is found with the republican papers because they did not buy a pig in the poke in regard to the presient's Southern policy. The present condition of the policy is laid at the door of the republican newspapers. The stave fellow who went to eateh a ghost in a dark barn and made a blind rush for it brought up against a stout oak post "Be sure you are right, then go thend," is a very good motto, and when rightly adhered to saves a good deal of trouble. The republican papers did a just thing when they said they would give the policy a fair trial, and it was all that could reasonably be asked of them and all the president wanted .--The Southern policy was not received in every household at the South with 105 H it had been, the stalwart element of the republican party would not now be so enthusiastic. In a large pornon of the cabins in the South the policy, or rather the result of the poliey, brought beart burnings and disap-pointment. The independent (?) press maks because a peace settled over the South when the policy began to work out that there is sufficient reason why there should be no objecting to the conduct of the Southern democrats.

and found the Russian army quartered within its walls is the kind of a peace which has been brought to the South, and the negroes and Southern republicous do not receive it into their households with any more joy than the Turks of Kars received their peace. The peace argument is the thinnest that could be urged. The peace that locks a negro's will up is not liked by him any better than the peace that turns his toes up to the daisies. In fact he will risk the latter to avoid the first. There The Secretary of the Winnebago (III.) is a roport that Kars need not have surrendered; that a faithless pasha was one who invited Jell Davis to speak to paul to give away one of the strongest ue excited about it, and they doubtless once the sympathy of the negroes of he Southern states, especially in Misassippi. The fine gentlemen of the in-lependent press need not congratulate hemselves that the fire is out. The rubbish which has been piled on it has udden the flames, but it smoulders hotter than over, and when it breaks out gain it will only be brighter for this additional fucl. The republican news-

Cleveland.

WASHINGTON, Dec 1,--In the executive session to-day the entire time was consumed in the discussion of the nominution of Vitzsimmons. Edmun's, Howe and other Republican Senators took occasion to assail the president on the policy of appointing Democrats to office. Mr Hill, of Gengia, made a strong speech in support of the President in his idea of appointing men to office who were satisfactory to the community, instead of forcing on them persons who were objectionable. Three hours were thus consumed, and when the vote was reached, Fitzsimmons was confirmed by two majority .-Patterson and Conover voted with the Democrats. The case of Gen. Harlan was not taken up, but as the nomination was confirmed, the pending motion to reconsider will fail it no further action is taken. The New York nominations were not considered, but every probability is that they will fail with

Secretary Sherman, in conversation to-day with members of the finance and ways and means committees, respecting the decline of revenues of the government, said it would be necessary to increase these, and, in his opinion, the simplest would be the best. He suggested that amongst articles which could be placed on the list with the least difficulty in collection and the least burden to the people were tea and coffee. The secretary favors some modifieation of the turiff, and believes that articles that enterinto general consumption and produce little or no revenue might with advantage be placed on the free list. In his report he will take strong ground against any interference with existing legislation on tesumption

The secretary of state is determined that the Spanish government shall have no cause of complaint against the goverument of the United States in the non-fulfillment of its treaty obligations. As soon as the suspicious character of the steamer Estelle became known, the secretary of the treasury was advised of the fact, and immediately instituted measures of inquiry. The reports from the parties who looked into the character of the vessel states she was without armament and very fleet. There was nothing to show that she was designed for hostile operation in Cuba, but it is admitted she would make a blockade runner. CLEVELAND, Dec. 2.—Charles R. Maof ill-fame, at 100 Cross street, at 2 o'clock in the atternoon. Jealousy was the cause of the murder. The murderer gave himself up and was taken to the central station, and with a freshly lit eigar, in a calm and perfectly cool manner, he gave the following verbatim account of the shooting: "I haid down on the bed with Mary, and after a few words I put my left arm around her and words I put my left arm around her and with my right hand took a revolver from my pocket and putting the muzzle to her ear, fired. She said, "forgive me, Charlie; send for a priest." I continued to shoot her in the right cheek until the seven charges were emptied into her head. Finding she was dead, I got up, sat on a chair, and put three more charges in the revolver, and laying her arm (which lay across her breast) to one side, I put the muzzie as near Mary's heart as I knew how, and fired two shots, and with the third load I shot her through the temple, making in all ten shots

After the above horrible recital, Magill ordered his supper, saying, "Don't send me any cold lunch, I want a good square meal

Washington, December 2.—As there will be no delay in the organization of either branch of Congress, the President will doubtless be early notified tomorrow of their readiness to receive any communication from him. The first annual message which will then be transmitted is of usual length. It is intimated in authoritative quarters that it will also be of unusual interest, as it covers a number of new questions of ad-ministration and policy. The financial question, which is discussed at some length, simply reasserts the views which have always been entertained by the President, and which are represented by Secretary Sherman. This question in the Secretary's report is covered in detail in connection with financial operations of the government, past and prospective. The abstract of our foreign relations prepared at the department of State, and incorporated in the message A Horrible Tragedy at in the absence of a report from the Secretary in person, shows our intercourse with foreign nation to have been satisfactory. The Mexican border question gives some prominence, the situation there involving diplomatic questions of a most delicate character. On internal agairs the Southern question receives the most prominence, and promulgates the policy which the president will pursue in his administration of affairs in the South. He calls attention to the status of things there when he entered office, and to which he has done since, and states his determination to pursue a simular course in the future. He thinks the encouragement of educational enterprises and public improvements in the South would go far towards effecting an improved public sentiment, which would forget the questions of the past, and look to a prospect for harmony in the future. On question of American in dustry and trade, a liberal policy is annonuced, which, whilst stimulating home enterprise, is also designed to find a market for our surplus manufactures.

An enlightened policy of home and foreign postul facilities is arged, and especially in foreign service, it being regarded that a judicious co-operation of the government with private enterprise in putting ships affeat is the only way to build up our commerce and to make a market for our surplus pay,

The session of the Senate to-morrow morning will be devoted exclusively to executive business. Senutor Conkling will make one effort to bring up the nomination of Merritt, for surveyor, for confirmation. This will be out of comnliment to Vice President Wheeler, who has taken a personal interest in this case, and will be satisfactory to the northern part of the state. There is no probability of the confirmation of Rosevelt or Prince, as papers reflecting upon them now in possession of the committee would consume several days in reading

The July Republican.

THE CLOWN'S ACTING MISUNDERSTOODS—Whoover has habitually attended circuses in this country remembers the Conrad Brothers, acrobatic clowns, and their comical performance, in which one pretended in be dead, while other tumbled him about. They recently went to Germany. The London Era contains the following: "One evening the elder Conrad fell to the ground after a pretended blow, and was turned and re-turned as usual. His arms and legs were jorked, he was struck and kicked and dragged, but preserved a steady impassibility. Suddenly an expression of distress could be noticed through the gratesquely-painted lineaments of his brother, who hastily dropped on his knees and placed his hand upon the Oganized 1846. Charter Perpetual. heart of the inanimate clown, exclaiming, 'My poor brother is dead?' At this the audience only laughed. 'Gentlemen,' said the distressed man, with tears in his eyes, 'I assure you that he is dead.' Then taking him tenderly in his arms he bore him from the arena. The crowd appeared struck with the natural man ner in which the bereft clown expressed grief, and applanded him vigorously as he departed. There were loud encores for both, but neither presented himself. Death had been more thoroughly simulated than ever before."
